TV Quiz Show Rigged, Winner Tells Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 32-year-old graduate student who helped wreck the fabulous TV quiz show business swore Tuesday he had put on a crooked performance for money.

In a congressional hearing that ranged from the hilarious to the deadly serious, Herbert Stempel of New York testified:

1. That he was slipped the answers beforehand, and even told how to have his hair cut, when he appeared on "Twenty-One" in 1956 against Charles Van Doren.

2. That he pleaded with Dan Enright, one of the quiz show's producers, to let him play "an honest game" and was ordered to keep on as he was doing, "for the good of the show."

3. That in March 1957 he collected $10,000 by betting that Van Doren would lose and leave the show.

Stempel implied that the producers knew in advance what Van Doren, as well as he, would do on the air. But Stempel specified: "I have no direct knowledge about any other contestant."

Van Doren Denied Charge

Van Doren has denied knowledge of any crookedness on the program.

Much of Tuesday's testimony was a warning-over of charges which embarrassed the television industry and shocked the viewing public in 1958.

The charges were disputed then by "Twenty-One's" producers, Enright and Jack Barry, who accused Stempel of cooking up a blackmail scheme.

But second-run or not, it was quite a show for the Capitol and a big crowd poured into the House caucus room where a branch of the House Commerce Committee was at last getting into the act.

The group is the Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark). It has an interest in the subject because of its assignment to check up on the work of such executive agencies as the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC has licensing power over television.

Film Evokes Laughter

Roars of laughter broke out often during the showing of a "Twenty-One" film, complete with commercials.

Spectators became downright boisterous when the film graphically showed Stempel losing to Van Doren in late 1956. There was an announcer Barry, wreathed in smiles, informing Stempel that he had won $49,500 and what did he plan to do with it?

The camera switched to Stempel, who blandly replied that the whole thing came as such a surprise, he just didn't know.

Van Doren, by the way, went on to win $129,000 and became one of the best-known faces in America. He now is a TV commentator. There are no present plans to call Van Doren as a witness.

Soviets Want "Few" 'Copters For Khrush

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Embassy took steps today to buy not just one, but "a few," helicopters for Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov and Commercial Counselor Vladimir Alkhimov called on State Department officials to inquire about the purchase. Khrushchev indicated on his trip here two weeks ago that he would like to have an American whirlybird.

GIVEN ANSWERS — Herbert Stempel, of New York, who won $49,500 on "Twenty-One," testifies as the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee opened its probe of charges that rigged television quiz shows used the air "deceitfully to exploit for private profit the interest of the viewing public." Stempel swore he was given answers in advance. He also said he later won an extra $10,000 with a sure-thing bet on the defeat of Charles Van Doren. (AP Photofax)

Youths Change Plea To Guilty Of Kidnaping

GRAFTON, W. Va. (AP) — Three inmates of the State Industrial School for Boys changed their plea to guilty of kidnaping Tuesday during the second day of a trial in Taylor County Circuit Court.

Patrick Jarrell, 17; Larry A. Rector, 16, and Roger L. Moore, 16, were lodged in the county jail here to await sentencing by Circuit Judge Francis L. Warder.

The young men were charged with kidnaping 18-year-old Sandra Lynne McKee last July 7. They fled from the Reformatory at nearby Pruntytown in the girl's automobile, taking her with them.

Counsel for the defense withdrew an original plea of innocent after Jarrell testified that the inmates took the girl and her car from the Pruntytown institution.

The defense was finishing its case when Jarrell took the witness stand. When he finished, the plea was reversed.

Kidnaping carries a minimum sentence of 10 years in prison.

Miss McKee is the secretary of the industrial school's superintendent. She had just returned from what was described as her usual non-hour drive when Jarrell, Moore and Rector surprised her.

One boy worked in a print shop at the institution and the other two in a shoe repair shop. They had asked permission to go to another shop and slipped away from a guard. One of the youths had a shoe knife and another a similar type tool when they confronted Miss McKee. The trio also had been charged with stealing the secretary's automobile but only the kidnaping charge was considered at the trial.

Newest Sub's Prop Bent In Collision With Whale

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (UPI) — Two giants of the sea collided during the night and the nation's newest nuclear submarine limped home Tuesday with a bent propeller.

The Navy disclosed Tuesday that the Sea Dragon, with Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover on board, bumped into a whale during sea trials Monday night.

A submarine rescue vessel, the Sun Bird of New London, Conn., was accompanying the Sea Dragon as a routine precaution but the 266-foot attack submarine made it back to the naval shipyard here on her own power, using her undamaged second propeller.

The Navy announcement said it was a whale but an officer on board the Sea Dragon, said it was dark and no one could see too

Rocket Within 4,375 Miles At Nearest Point

MOSCOW (AP) — The cosmic rocket Lunik III, designed to survey the perpetually hidden side of the moon, has passed behind the moon strictly on course and operating normally, the Soviet Union announced Tuesday night.

Tass said the 614-pound flying observatory, packed with automatic recording and transmitting apparatus, came within 4,375 miles of the moon at its nearest approach. The time was 5:16 p.m. (9:16 a.m. EST).

About three hours later, the Soviet news agency added, it was 9,370 miles away "near the plane of the lunar equator."

On "Predetermined Orbit" — "The rocket is moving strictly along the predetermined orbit," Tass said. This elliptical orbit is plotted to head it back to the vicinity of the earth, from which the Soviets fired it Sunday.

The position at 12 noon EST was plotted as 230,925 miles above the South Atlantic at a point 17 degrees 30 minutes south latitude and 22 degrees 48 minutes west longitude.

The scientific equipment was reported functioning as expected.

The steady beeping sounds thrown out by Lunik during its journey from the earth changed to a rhythmic fading and swelling about the time set by the Soviets for the start of its job.

Some Scientists Puzzled — This puzzled at least some scientists listening in.

British observers manning the world's largest radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, England, said they were mystified.

Soviet scientists kept vigil at a mechanical brain—a complicated system of listening posts and computing centers. The historic reports were to come via two radio links.

Man has not seen the far side of the moon because the moon makes one revolution on its own axis during each of its 28-day circuits of the earth. From dark of the moon to full moon, the familiar side is always facing the earth.

There was no indication in Sunday's announcement after the launching that TV equipment was aboard. Nor was there any reference to cameras.

Atlas And Thor Missiles Fired

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — While a Soviet rocket streaked toward a rendezvous with the moon, the United States fired two of its big missiles—an Atlas and a Thor — on full-range flights Tuesday.

The Atlas successfully carried a new tactical-type nose cone to an Atlantic target 5,500 miles away.

The Air Force announced the Atlas achieved all test objectives and that the advanced design nose cone performed satisfactorily.

Later, the Thor blasted off on a 1,500-mile reliability test. There was no official word on the Thor performance, but the launching appeared perfect.

The new Atlas cone is designed for faster re-entry through the earth's atmosphere. It also can carry a bigger nuclear payload.

Fact-Finding Board Named By President

Injunction To Halt Port Tieup May Be Obtained By Friday

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President Eisenhower paved the way Tuesday for an 80-day cooling-off halt of the dock strike by invoking the Taft-Hartley law. He said the Atlantic and Gulf Coast shutdown by the independent International Longshoremen's Assn. threatens national health and safety.

The President deferred similar action in the 84-day-old nationwide steel strike. But he hinted he soon may use the Taft-Hartley back-to-work court injunction provisions in that shutdown, too.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, noted the new collapse of labor-management negotiations in the steel strike and told a news conference at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters:

"The President has asked me to say that this situation is not collective bargaining, which is the instrument open to a free people in major economic disputes.

"This seems to be getting down more and more to a trial of strength between two groups with the American public the greatest loser."

Injunction Due By Friday

In Washington, Labor Department officials predicted a back-to-work injunction will be obtained in federal court by Friday.

An ILA spokesman, informed of the President's action, said in New York: "We always obey the government."

Eisenhower's use of the Taft-Hartley law in the dock strike came with the shutdown only six days old.

In the dock tie-up, which has halted shipping from Maine to Texas, Eisenhower said in an executive order that the strike "will imperil the national health and safety" if permitted to continue.

The President added the strike also imperils the flow of necessary perishable products, including food, to heavily populated Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

As the first step under the Taft-Hartley national emergency provisions, Eisenhower named a three-man fact-finding board and instructed the members to report to him by Saturday. The board makes no recommendations.

Hearing Wednesday

Both sides in the strike were told to appear Wednesday in Washington before the board. The hearing is expected to take only one day.

On the basis of the board's report, the President then can direct the Justice Department to petition in a federal district court for an injunction ordering about 85,000 striking dockers back to their jobs.

Eisenhower also could find the board's report does not justify the court order procedure. But in this case, the President already is familiar with the issues and serious economic impact of the strike, and an injunction petition in a few days—probably by Friday—is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

When any court injunction has run its 80-day course, there is nothing to keep the ILA from striking again.

Powell Backs Bridges For GOP Nomination

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Gov. Wesley Powell said Tuesday he would support Sen. Styles Bridges if Bridges became a favorite son candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Powell was asked at his news conference whether he would support Vice President Nixon or New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in this state's first-in-the-nation presidential primary next March.

Powell replied by saying he had not had a chance to discuss "vital issues" with either Nixon or Rockefeller during their separate visits to this state during the past two weeks.

Then Powell mentioned Bridges, saying "there has been considerable amount of interest in the last few days on the possibility of Styles Bridges being a favorite son candidate."

"I would give him all the support I could give him," Powell said.

Russia Would Accept Partial Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Russia offered Tuesday to accept gradual and partial global disarmament.

The Soviet Union also told the United Nations that it favored international cooperation in exploring outer space.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov told the U.N. General Assembly that Russia would not insist on complete disarmament by all powers within four years, as proposed by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev before the U.N. last month.

"If the Western powers do not express now their willingness to accept general and complete disarmament," Kuznetsov said, "the Soviet government is ready, as before to come to an agreement with other states on appropriate partial steps on disarmament and the strengthening of security."

He said Russia believes there now exist all the requirements for concluding an agreement on a ban on nuclear weapons tests, in the near future.

Kuznetsov, speaking at the final session of the assembly's general policy debate, apparently was as late as everyone in his audience in getting word that the Soviet Lunik III rocket had gone into a circuit around the moon.

His prepared text made no mention of the development, but he departed from it to refer to the satellite "now circling the opposite side of the moon."

"The Soviet Union has been and is in favor of the widest possible development of . . . cooperation in exploring outer space," he said. Khrushchev, in an historic U.N. appearance on Sept. 18, proposed the complete abolition of all the world's armies, navies and air forces within four years with all nations to retain only the forces necessary for maintaining internal security.

Kuznetsov took the floor in the assembly's annual policy debate to amplify the Khrushchev proposal.

Kuznetsov said Russia believed that an agreement on a ban on nuclear weapons tests could be reached now.

Kuznetsov disputed the Western contention that Khrushchev's disarmament program did not provide for adequate control and inspection to enforce the plan.

Surgeons Separate Siamese Twin Girls

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Three-month-old Siamese twin girls were separated successfully here Tuesday in a delicate operation performed by a team of four surgeons.

The girls are Jeanett Kim and Denett Linn Stubblefield, born by caesarian section at Nyssa, Ore., June 29, and flown to Portland the following day.

Girl, 15, Forced From Church, Raped By Negro

CHICAGO (AP) — A large task force of detectives formed quickly Tuesday to hunt for a knife-woman who forced a girl from a church and raped her.

The victim, a 15-year-old white girl, described her assailant as light-skinned Negro, about 20 and 6 feet tall.

The girl told police the man accosted her in the vestibule of St. Martin's Roman Catholic church on the South Side. She had planned to attend Mass there before going to her classes at the nearby St. Martin Commercial High School.

She said the man displayed a switchblade knife and warned: "Come along with me and you won't get hurt."

She started to call out to a woman who entered the church, she said, but her captor prodded her with a knife, compelled her to walk across the street, go under the rear porch of a frame house and disrobe.

After the rape, the man fled and the girl dressed and informed nuns. A priest summoned police. The girl was taken to a hospital.

Weary Volunteers Battle Tulsa Flood

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The Arkansas River at Tulsa continued to drop slowly Tuesday, but tired volunteer workers continued to fight the river at its soggy and weakening west bank.

Downstream, communities prepared for the crest which was predicted to far exceed flood stage at all points except Muskogee.

Tulsa Police Lt. Roy Houseour quoted an Army Engineers spokesman as saying the Elwood Ave. levee in West Tulsa has reached the saturation point.

"We don't know how much longer it will hold," Houseour said.

Exile Learns Of Mr. K's U.S. Reunion Promise

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — A woman separated from her husband and daughter for 19 years by the Iron Curtain reached a radio too late to hear with her own ears that they soon may be reunited, a letter from the Soviet Union reported Tuesday.

Mrs. Barbara Armonas, in a letter to her husband John, 54, in Cleveland from the village of Pasvily in Lithuania, related how she learned of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's promise to end her exile.

Khrushchev made the promise to Mrs. Armonas' daughter Donna, 24, during his recent U.S. visit.

Mrs. Armonas, a former Cleveland housewife, wrote her husband that she was alone in her rented room when shouting neighbors ran to her door.

Basic Berlin Issues Remain, Herter Asserts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Tuesday the Russians still want to force the Western powers out of Berlin, and there is no assurance a new summit conference will break the deadlock.

He said the Camp David talks between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev temporarily eased tension on the Berlin and German problems, but that the basic issues still must be resolved.

Herter appraised East-West relations in the light of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks in his first news conference since July 9. He opened the session by reading this statement:

"We have been communicating with our allies on the various subjects brought up between the President and Chairman Khrushchev at Camp David. Among these is a possible summit conference.

"The matter of a summit conference and when or where it might be held is, as the President said last week, a subject for consultation with other nations. Until that process has been completed I cannot properly say anything further."

Asked bluntly whether he had found any indication that a summit conference would be more successful than the futile foreign ministers meeting at Geneva last summer, he replied: "I cannot give you that assurance."

Khrushchev brought the Berlin and German issues to a head last November by threatening to force the Allies out of Berlin unless they withdrew voluntarily by May 27. New negotiations were opened up before the deadline arrived, however.

Labor Board Split On Interpretation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) split 3-2 Tuesday in its first interpretation of the new labor reform law Congress enacted to crack down on union-management corruption.

The agency voted to certify unions that win representation elections even though they had failed to comply with now-obsolete filing requirements of the Taft-Hartley Act, the nation's basic labor law.

Previously the board refused to certify a union if it refused to file financial data and non-Communist affidavits with the government. The new law set aside the Taft-Hartley filing requirements.

John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and the International Typographical Union were the two major unions which had refused to comply with the filing requirements.

Six Industry Heads, Union Group Confer

Each Side Charges Other Maintaining Inflexible Position

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A steel negotiations summit meeting failed Tuesday night to break the deadlock in the 84-day-old steel strike.

After a 90-minute meeting with top steel industry executives, United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald told newsmen: "Nothing has changed. The industry's position is not flexible."

McDonald said no further bargaining sessions are scheduled.

The newest impasse increased the possibility that President Eisenhower might invoke the Taft-Hartley act shortly to get the 500,000 striking steelworkers back to their jobs for an 80-day cooling off period.

Resumption of negotiations, which had broken off completely Monday night, came at the urging of the President.

McDonald said a six-man group of industry leaders headed by U.S. Steel Corp. Chairman Roger M. Blough had held a "very frank discussion of the situation" with a four-man union group.

Blough said at a news conference that the union was sticking to a demand for wage and fringe benefit increases that the industry estimates would cost 60 cents an hour over a three-year period.

"That seems to be their unalterable position," he added.

Blough said he could detect no change in the stalemated situation. Asked, "Where do you go from here?" he replied: "I wish I knew."

Believe Offer Fair

He said the union was told that "We thought our 15-cent an hour offer over a period of two years was a fair offer," adding: "We said it was one we would think met the needs of the situation from the standpoint of the employees and the public."

McDonald minimized the 60-cent per hour cost that the industry placed on the union's proposals.

"I could say something nasty, but I won't. I'll say only this—that Mr. Cooper should get a new lead pencil."

His reference was to R. Conrad Cooper, head of the industry's regular bargaining team and a U.S. Steel vice president.

McDonald said that while the discussion had been frank, "nothing has changed; the industry's position is not flexible; they remain adamant."

On the other hand, McDonald maintained, the union position has been flexible all through the negotiations. The union president conceded, however, that the union position has not changed since the latest peace talks opened in Pittsburgh last Thursday.

Tuesday was the only the second meeting of industry's top chiefs and union leaders since the strike started July 15.

Industry Group Standing By

Blough said the industry group made it clear to the union that Cooper and his team are "ready to meet with the union at any time."

He told newsmen that the six-man group of top steel executives would be standing by in Pittsburgh although they expected any further negotiations to be conducted by the Cooper group.

Blough said as far as U.S. Steel is concerned, it regards the industry's 15-cent offer in a two-year period as noninflationary. He added: (Continued on Page 2, col. 3)

CENTO, Baghdad Pact's Successor, Meets In U.S.

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

While SEATO considers its obligations to Laos in case of continued Communist attack, and NATO considers the possibilities of a summit conference, CENTO is meeting this week to take up more tactical problems.

If this doesn't mean anything to you, it isn't surprising, since CENTO is a new word in the great maze of political and military treaty organizations to which the United States belongs or is affiliated with in one way or another.

Indeed, although the ministers representing the CENTO nations are meeting in Washington, this is one treaty organization of which the United States is not a member.

CENTO stands for Central Treaty Organization, which used to be the Baghdad Pact before revolutionary Premier Abdel Karim Kassem took Baghdad out of it.

Its present members are Britain, Turkey, Pakistan and Iran. The United States, through John Foster Dulles, started it. The United States has binding defense treaties with all of its members, specifically as members of the pact, and over and above the mutual aid, SEATO and NATO treaties it had with all of them except Iran. The United States is a member of all the working committees.

Montgomery Appeals Board Given Warning

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Members of the Montgomery County Appeals Board were warned Tuesday to apply their rules strictly or expect to get fired.

The warning was contained in a legal opinion by County Attorney Alfred H. Carter on the board's procedural rules. It was accepted without comment by the County Council at its weekly meeting.

But Council President Stella B. Werner read to the meeting a paragraph from the opinion that stated the council has full power to remove any board member who yields to private and off-the-record persuasion.

She said Carter's opinion automatically became County Council opinion.

William A. Kuinlan, a member of the appeals board, said last spring the board's rules were being applied too loosely to protect the public.

Quinlan said at the time he was critical of the custom of private consultation between board members and people with cases before the board. The Appeals Board handles applications for controversial zoning exceptions, some involving millions of dollars.

He carried his charges to the County Council in June. The council subsequently took no action other than censuring him for causing "needless embarrassment" to the county government.

Quinlan is a Republican, and the seven councilmen are Democrats.

But last month the council, after several weeks of hesitation, reappointed him to another four-year term on the board.

The council did not grant Quinlan's request for a new law carrying criminal penalties against off-the-record contacts.

But Carter's opinion said no private information of any kind could be considered by the board's members, including advice from county officials.

Carter said the County Council was under the same requirements when it acted on rezoning cases.

Moon Pictures OK But Sample Even Better

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American scientists are impressed by Russia's picture-taking Lunik III, but what they really want to get their hands on is a chunk of moon rock.

A moon sample would enable scientists to learn more about the moon's composition in a short period than they could hope to learn in years from telephoto pictures.

Examination might prove what they have long believed — that many rocks now on display in natural history museums as meteorites actually are bits of lunar matter which have peppered the earth.

Lunik III may get crude pictures of the moon's other side, heretofore hidden from earth-bound viewers. But most scientists believe pictures will not reveal much difference from the face turned toward the earth.

In any case, Lunik III's pictures would not resolve such controversies as whether lunar craters are of meteoric or volcanic origin.

U.S. space scientists concede the Soviet Union's new moon rocket marks "the beginning of space flight."

However, they feel it is much more important to develop a robot or manned vehicle capable of scooping up moon matter and bringing it back to earth. Both countries agree that putting a man on the moon is many years away.

ed if that became the settlement basis, U.S. Steel "would not expect to see an increase in the general level of steel prices in the foreseeable future."

Asked if the industry would like to see the Taft-Hartley Act invoked, Blough said: "My feeling about the Taft-Hartley law is that it's something for government officials to take care of."

He said the steel firms are standing together on their position despite reports that some companies are dissatisfied.

Besides Blough the industry group included Joseph Block, chairman of Inland Steel; Avery Adams, chairman of Jones & Laughlin; A. B. Homer, president of Bethlehem; Charles White, chairman of Republic; and R. Conrad Cooper, head of the industry's regular negotiating team and a U.S. Steel vice president.

McDonald was accompanied to the meeting by I. W. Abel, union secretary-treasurer; Howard Hague, vice president; and Arthur J. Goldberg, union general counsel.

Ever since the strike started July 15, McDonald has been insisting that steel company leaders meet with the union.

McDonald renewed his request for a meeting with steel chiefs after talks with the regular industry bargainers collapsed Monday night.

The steel industry has contended all along that its representatives headed by Cooper have full authority to negotiate an agreement.

The union had rejected an industry offer made over the weekend as "completely unsatisfactory."

Earlier Tuesday the union demanded a fair settlement and pledged to continue the 84-day walkout indefinitely until "justice is done."

Tuesday wound up the 12th week of the strike, worst steel strike in history. New layoffs were announced in the railroad and auto industries as steel shortage effects mushroomed.

Conservatives 5-2 Favorites

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's most closely fought general election race in years neared the finish Tuesday night with both the Conservatives and the opposition Laborites predicting victory.

With less than 48 hours before polling begins Thursday, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservatives still were favorites to win by a narrow margin. Bookmakers quoted 5-2 odds on a Conservative win.

But few now ruled out the possibility of a Labor Party victory.

Conservative campaign manager Lord Hailsham told a news conference he stands by his earlier predictions of a Conservative victory.

Home Secretary Richard A. Butler told an 11th hour election rally in his Essex farm belt constituency "I am confident that with common sense the result will be in your favor."

But Morgan Phillips, Labor Party secretary, claimed at a news conference that the Laborites would win with a working majority in the new House of Commons if the vote is heavy.

U. S. Space Lag Blamed On Priority Given ICBM

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force's research chief said Tuesday the United States lags behind Russia in space because it placed primary emphasis on military missiles during the past five years.

Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Research and Development Command, made clear at a news conference that this condition will continue. He said priority still is being given to the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) as a matter of national survival.

Schriever said it was decided in 1954 not to use military missiles in the Vanguard earth satellite program. While the Soviets have enjoyed "spectacular" space success with their bigger rockets, he said, the United States is even with them in deploying ICBMs.

Dr. Herbert F. York, Pentagon research chief, said Monday that it was known in 1954 that Russia was ahead in missile development and that an all-out effort was needed to catch up.

In turn, the 1954 lag was blamed on the fact that U.S. scientists at one time thought it would be impossible to build a hydrogen bomb small enough to be carried by an ICBM.

Dr. Herbert F. York, Pentagon research chief, said Monday that it was known in 1954 that Russia was ahead in missile development and that an all-out effort was needed to catch up.

In turn, the 1954 lag was blamed on the fact that U.S. scientists at one time thought it would be impossible to build a hydrogen bomb small enough to be carried by an ICBM.

U. S. Space Lag Blamed On Priority Given ICBM

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force's research chief said Tuesday the United States lags behind Russia in space because it placed primary emphasis on military missiles during the past five years.

Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Research and Development Command, made clear at a news conference that this condition will continue. He said priority still is being given to the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) as a matter of national survival.

Schriever said it was decided in 1954 not to use military missiles in the Vanguard earth satellite program. While the Soviets have enjoyed "spectacular" space success with their bigger rockets, he said, the United States is even with them in deploying ICBMs.

Dr. Herbert F. York, Pentagon research chief, said Monday that it was known in 1954 that Russia was ahead in missile development and that an all-out effort was needed to catch up.

In turn, the 1954 lag was blamed on the fact that U.S. scientists at one time thought it would be impossible to build a hydrogen bomb small enough to be carried by an ICBM.

Prisoner Contends Confinement Illegal

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP)—A young prisoner at Patuxent Institution contended Tuesday he has been illegally confined there for nearly five years.

He claimed, through attorneys, that he was assigned to the prison for a crime that took place before the deadline date set by law. The Defective Delinquent Act of 1951 created Patuxent stated that no one could be sent there for an offense committed before June 1, 1954.

Counsel for William Caparella, 22, filed the claim in Howard County Criminal Court. The petition asked the court to set aside a five-year term for escape from Patuxent Institution.

Caparella claims he has been held four years and nine months as a defective delinquent under an original one-year burglary sentence, plus the term for escaping.

Timonium Fair Operators Fight For Tax Exemption

Drivers Boycott Va. Truck Stops

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — The Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society, Inc. doesn't agree with a tax court ruling there is doubt its Timonium race track and midway have educational value.

The society, operator of the Timonium Fairgrounds, announced Tuesday it is appealing a decision of the Baltimore County Appeal Tax Court which denied tax exemptions on the York road property.

The fair claimed total exemption on ground it is a charitable and educational institution. It argued in the plea to the State Tax Court that the county tax group perched in holding that only part of the property should be exempted.

The lower tax court ruled that the fair was liable to about $20,000 in taxes on the race track and midway section, which occupy about 43 acres of land and improvements assessed at $794,745.

The court exempted the 40.4 acres in the fair exhibition area, which is assessed at $136,365 and subject to about $2,200 in taxes annually.

"The tax court said that 'from the very nature of the race track and midway facilities there is, at the very least, a reasonable doubt as to whether or not they are necessary for the educational uses of the taxpayer applying for exemption.'"

"We do not believe," the court added, "that the operation of a well-known half-mile race track and midway facilities including wheels of chance, etc., are uses which are necessary to the educational purposes claimed."

32 Killed On State Highways In August

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP)—One person was killed every 23 hours on Maryland's highways during August and one was injured every 24 minutes, State Police reported Tuesday.

The report listed 32 traffic deaths for the month, 1,831 personal injuries and 4,493 accidents. It increased the total dead for the year to 331 in eight months, a one per cent gain over the first eight months of 1958.

Nine of the 32 killed were pedestrians. Baltimore County had the most accidents, 751, with Prince Georges County second with 474. Both counties were at the top of the list of fatalities, with six deaths each.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A drivers' boycott of Virginia truck stops is gathering steam on the eve of a legislative subcommittee hearing to consider whether the Old Dominion's traffic laws need revision.

The boycott, urged by W. A. Winslow, a driver from Charlotte, N.C., is making itself felt at numerous business places along the state's primary truck routes. Several truck stops on U.S. 1 north of Richmond reported an alarming drop in business Monday and one proprietor said a 7½ hour period yielded not a single truck.

In urging the boycott, Winslow said it was a means to oppose the manner in which truckers were being nabbed in Virginia by hidden radar for speeding infractions of only a few miles an hour beyond the legal limit.

The boycott began over the weekend and is scheduled to run a month.

Missing Music Teacher Found

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—A nationwide police lookout for Robert S. Detwiler, a Montgomery County teacher, was canceled Monday when he was located in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Detwiler, 23, had been reported missing since Sept. 23.

Police said they canceled the lookout after the teacher's father informed them from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., that his son had been found. Detwiler had gone to Ann Arbor, the father said, to pick up a friend.

A spokesman for the county board of education disclosed Tuesday that Detwiler's contract as a music teacher on a roving assignment in the schools had been terminated, subject to school board approval. It was terminated, he said, because of Detwiler's unexplained absence.

Police were told that when Detwiler left his lodgings in Kensington on Sept. 23 he said he would be gone only overnight. His last pay check has not been picked up.

Tapping New Market To Boost Arnel Making Here

A research and marketing program of Celanese Corporation of America aimed at putting its Arnel triacetate fiber into a huge and previously untapped market will have some effect on the production of Arnel at the local plant.

The Amcelle plant is the sole producer of filament Arnel and also produces the other types. The retail field which the Celanese is seeking to place its product in is the knitted underwear market. Arnel-Orlon and Arnel-cotton fabrics will be available in volume the first time this fall and next spring.

Peter H. Conze, vice president and marketing director of Celanese Fibers Company, says acceptance at all levels of the trade has been so favorable that Celanese is unable to fill all demands for yarn. In the five years since its introduction, Arnel has become one of the most important man-made fibers used in women and tricot knit apparel fabrics, but has not been used in any volume for circular knit underwear fabrics, a major segment of the textile industry that accounts for many millions of yards of fabric each year. Outwear describes such items of apparel as sport shirts, dresses, blouses and sweaters.

Men's sport shirts and women's and children's clothing made of 50-50 Arnel and Orlon circular knit fabrics are being sold at retail for the first time this fall. Apparel—principally men's sport shirts—made of blends of 60% Arnel and 40% cotton circular knit fabrics will not make their appearance at retail until next spring.

Garments made from jersey dress fabrics of the Arnel-Orlon blend are wash and wear types, as they can be worn without ironing after being washed and dried in home laundry equipment. They can also be durably pleated and have high resistance to sagging and pilling. Fabrics for men's sport shirts are soft to the touch, do not feel clammy next to the skin and can be machine washed and dried without appreciably losing fit, shape or color. The fabrics come in solid colors, heathers, prints and cross-dyed effects.

Arnel-cotton fabrics retain their shape well, have a soft feel, and can be styled in great variety through dyeing techniques. According to Conze the first season's sales of fabrics will amount to more than two million yards.

Conze pointed out, knit fabrics are more popular than woven for sport shirts. Five years ago, he said, a very small quantity of sport shirts, probably not more than 10 per cent of the total, were made of knit goods. Conze attributed the popularity of knit sport shirts to their wrinkle resistance, soft feel, improved styling, and ease of care. New types of circular knitting machinery have expanded styling possibilities and have effected cost savings.

The extensive developmental work related to yarn processing, dyeing and knitting Arnel-Orlon blends was carried on both by Deering Milliken & Co. and by the Applications and Product Development Laboratories maintained by Celanese at Charlotte, N. C. Arnel-cotton development work was carried on largely by Celanese. Once fabrics having desirable properties had been developed and the processing problems solved, Celanese representatives approached spinning and knitting mills and knitwear firms to apprise them of the new fabrics' properties and potential end uses and to offer suggestions for processing.

Urges Cold War Win

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) said Tuesday the United States must win the cold war if it and the rest of the free world are to survive the threat of world communism. In an address to a Chamber of Commerce group Judd said that undesirable as the cold war is, it was the only means of solving world conflict short of total war or total surrender.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I was married five years to a rotter. He used to come home loaded, pull me out of bed, and beat me for no reason. He wouldn't let me go anywhere, not even to the grocery store. I never had a cent to call my own. It was like being in jail.

When our son was three I couldn't take it anymore so I got a divorce. Now I'm married to the sweetest guy who ever lived. After what I've been through I can appreciate a man who treats me like a human being. The problem is, Don dislikes my son.

He cringes when the boy tries to climb on his lap. Don brings me little surprises and gifts, but never anything for the child. This is breaking my heart and I don't know what to do. I need help.—G.

DEAR G: Don is uncomfortable around the boy because he identifies him with your first husband. This is tragic and unfair. Ask your clergyman to talk with Don. If he hears from an outsider how his hostility toward the boy may cripple the marriage, it may help him to be more rational.

DEAR ANN: My 17-year-old daughter, Fay, and I are having a spirited difference of opinion.

There's a growing social custom in our city — free, public dances for teen-agers. Fay is lively, cute and popular. She has plenty of dates. I've permitted her to attend these dances because her girl friend (who is unpopular) wants her to go along. I don't like the idea and have said so.

Since the dances are free and refreshments are cheap, it puts the boys in an enviable position. They go, look over the crop of girls, and decide which one (if any) they'll take home.

I say the whole set-up is cheap and any girl who goes along with it is a ninny. Why should a boy exert himself to phone for a date if he can pick up the girl at a free dance? Who is right? —IRATE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: These affairs, if properly chaperoned, (and I assume they are) help to provide a social outlet for fellows who are broke and girls who don't get many proper phone dates.

For many young people it can be a God-send, but a gal who is "lively, cute and popular" doesn't need this set-up.

DEAR ANN: My husband has an aunt who is 76 years old. She raised him when his mother died so he feels he owes her a lot.

This aunt lives 170 miles away, owns her own cute little bungalow and has a small income on which she manages nicely.

We drive over to see her every two weeks, just for the day. I don't mind, because it's a nice ride and she is good company and adores our children.

Lately my husband has been nagging her to sell her home and move in with us. We have room and I wouldn't mind, but I honestly feel she's better off where she is. He claims he's responsible for her and would feel better if she were under our roof. She's cool to the idea but in time, if he keeps nagging her, he may change her mind. Will you comment?—ELSIE

DEAR ELSIE: Tell your husband to let his aunt live her own life. It's far better for older people to be independent in the twilight of their years, if they can manage it.

Auntie will be much happier in her own home with her own friends and neighbors. Let well enough alone.

Board To Seek Inspector Status Ruling

The Allegany County Board of County Democratic State Central Committee made several weeks ago.

In addition to their status under Vandegrift, the lone Republican on the county's Civil Service system on the board is Melvin Sloan, of the committee also inquired if Lonaconing.

The Liquor Board plans to em-ploy counsel to present the case before Circuit Court.

The two inspectors were named some years ago when the Liquor Board was in control of the Re-publicans. Last November the county went Democratic and the present board is composed of two Democrats, Edward J. Ryan, board chairman, and Howard

West Germany Debates How To Restore Relations With Eastern Europe

By WELLINGTON LONG
United Press International

BONN (UPI) — West Germany, having resolved its quarrels with its Western neighbors, is now caught up in a great debate as to whether and how it should attempt to restore relations with Eastern Europe.

The debate is complicated by the fact that four former German provinces are part of Poland and seven million Germans expelled from them at the end of World War II now live, and vote, in West Germany.

Moribund for years, the question of possible diplomatic relations with Poland and other Communist East European countries was revived during this summer's Big Four foreign ministers conference in Geneva.

The West German foreign ministry, in preparing for all possible developments, drew up a paper on the Polish matter which was brought before the federal cabinet.

It suggested three possible courses — maintenance of the status quo, meaning no relations between Poland and West Germany; an offer to sign a non-aggression pact with Poland; or a bid offer to establish diplomatic relations with Warsaw.

The cabinet chose the status quo for the time being. But the cabinet discussion sparked a national uproar. The Socialist opposition, always against simply marking time, demanded diplomatic relations with Poland.

To this idea, the refugee organizations objected loudly. To restore diplomatic relations with Poland, they argued, would mean abdicating all claims on the former German provinces of Silesia, Pomerania, West Prussia and the southern half of East Prussia.

The Allies agreed at the 1945 Potsdam conference to place these provinces under Polish administration pending the determination of a final frontier in the peace treaty but a peace treaty has never been signed.

Last month, a leading member of the foreign ministry named Friedrich Von Kessel resigned because of opposition to the government's do-nothing policies.

Since then, he has engaged in a bitter exchange of letters with refugee leaders, who have also demanded the dismissal of at least one more foreign ministry under secretary believed to support the idea of diplomatic relations with Poland.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has publicly and privately walked the middle path. On the 20th anniversary of the German attack on Poland, the Chancellor made one-fifth of West Germany's total population. They represent a he and most Germans sympathize with the Poles for the suffering they endured and want to be good neighbors again.

But he did not touch specifically on the border question.

Adenauer remembers well how he burned his political fingers in 1953 when he suggested Poland might sometime establish joint control over the former German territories. The refugee organizations reacted so furiously that Adenauer had to take it back.

The refugees — the 7,000,000 from what is now part of Poland sure to remove them from their areas of Eastern Europe make up the brass neck

Elephant In Church Causes Near-Riot

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—A woman worshipper in the midst of crossing herself in St. Angelo's Church raised her eyes and swooned.

Charging down the aisle was an elephant. Persons in the church Sunday leaped into the pews. A number of women screamed and fainted.

The elephant, a circus beast named Mary, walked to the altar and stopped, then turned around and stepped out of the church.

Just as the worshippers were settling down, back came Mary, hunching up the aisle. Three times, she went up and down the aisle.

Her trainer finally got her back into the piazza where the circus had gathered for a blessing on the feast day of St. Francis of Assisi, the patron of animals.

According to her trainer, the elephant had been frightened into the church by a herd of camels.

Burglars Jimmy Open Desk In Quiet Capitol

WASHINGTON (AP) — Things are so quiet around the Capitol these days that even the burglars are working unmolested.

Over the weekend they entered the House Press gallery, presumably with a key, and jimmied open the desk of the gallery superintendent.

The loot: Nothing. The desk contained an assortment of paper clips, pencil leads, a ball of twine, aspirin tablets, keys that fit nothing in particular; and some odds and ends.

Capitol Police went to work immediately on the case but came up with no early clues.

The only two states in the United States which are bounded by four straight lines are Wyoming and Colorado.

Sen. Morton To Address GOP Women

Senator Thurston B. Morton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, will make his first official visit to Maryland as guest speaker for the Maryland Federation of Republican Women October 13. Mrs. Arthur A. Verner and Mrs. Holmes Cessna will be delegates from the Cumberland club for the convention October 13-14 in the Sheraton Belvedere Hotel.

Senator Morton, of Kentucky, was elected chairman of the National Committee on April 11, 1959, and is now on a nationwide tour.

"The federation is very proud," Mrs. Osborne Beall, president, said, "to sponsor Senator Morton's initial visit as chairman of the National Committee to Maryland. We believe he typifies the young and vigorous public official who is serving the nation under the GOP banner. His record both in business and World War II, as well as in politics, is one of hard work, getting the job done and then tackling the next one with enthusiasm. As a Congressman he devoted himself to constructive opposition to the Truman regime and in 1952 gave up his Congressional seat to actively manage the successful senatorial campaign of John Sherman Cooper and to work in behalf of General Eisenhower. In 1957 he defeated Senator Earle Clements, the Senate Democratic floor leader, a man who never before suffered a political defeat. In 1953 he showed the courage of his convictions by saying during the midst of the "Communist-in-government scare:

"There are, I know, some patriotic Americans who are so disturbed by the menace of communism that they are beginning to wonder whether or not it would be best to chip off a little liberty here and there to preserve the basic fundamentals of democracy. I share their concern about communism, but not their willingness to allow the chipping of any of our liberties."

Sweeper Crews Will Work Downtown Streets Sunday

Street Commissioner John J. Long has announced a "new approach" to the problem of keeping streets clean in downtown Cumberland.

Beginning Sunday, sweeper crews will work on downtown streets starting at noon.

The idea behind the Sunday schedule, he said, is that not many cars are parked downtown in the Sunday afternoon hours and the sweeper will be able to clean areas it has never been able to reach before because it was blocked by vehicles.

In announcing the new plan, he said he is not satisfied with conditions downtown despite cooperation in the past by both the public and merchants. There is still much debris and paper cluttering up the streets and alleys, he added.

Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney said his department will cooperate in the cleanup and reminded that penalties are provided for tossing or sweeping litter into the streets or alleys cleaned by city forces.

Mr. Long urged the public to use a more liberal use of the yellow-painted trash receptacles which are placed conveniently along principal streets. Gum wrappers, empty cigarette packages and the like should be placed in these receptacles and not tossed into the street, he said.

The department, with cooperation of police, is continuing its "alternate side" sweeping schedule this week and signs are being posted that no parking will be allowed from 7 to 9 a. m. while streets are cleaned.

Yesterday the right side of Market Street from the Narrows to Market Street was on the schedule.

The schedule for the remainder of the week follows: Today: Centre Street from Market Street to the Narrows; Street to the Narrows on the right side going toward the Narrows.

Thursday: Centre Street from Market Street to the Narrows, left side going toward the Narrows.

Friday: Decatur Street from Baltimore Avenue to Bedford Street, right side toward Bedford Street.

Parsons Couple Loses Fight For Foster Child

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A Parsons couple who had fought 34 months to keep a foster child was ordered by the West Virginia Supreme Court yesterday to turn her over to the Department of Public Assistance (DPA).

The court ruled unanimously in favor of the DPA in reversing a Tucker County Circuit Court decision giving permanent custody of a two-year-old girl to Forest and Edith Isner.

The 5-0 opinion, in effect, held that when a couple signs a contract with the DPA as foster parents, they are obligated to release custody on request by the DPA. The Isners had contended that the contract they signed was invalid on technical grounds.

Judge Leslie E. Given wrote the opinion in which the lower court was directed to issue an order advising the Isners to "immediately deliver" little Rosemary Johnson, who will be 3 on Oct. 13, to the DPA.

"There appears no doubt that Mr. and Mrs. Isner are of excellent character and that they could, and are anxious to, furnish a proper home for the infant," the opinion said.

Quoting a previous Supreme Court opinion in a similar case, Given added, "It must be remembered, however, that defendants accepted custody of the infant as 'foster parents' for temporary custody only and that they expressly contracted to cooperate with the Department of Public Assistance in carrying out the department's plan for the infant."

The Isners had been given the girl when she was only seven days old and contended through their attorney that "to remove her now... would be a great injustice to the child."

About two months after the Isners got the baby, the DPA instituted proceedings, in December, 1956, to reclaim her for placing with adoptive parents. The Isners fought to keep her.

In January, 1957, the lower court ruled in favor of the DPA but on appeal by the Isners reversed the decision and later that year awarded the Isners permanent custody. The circuit court rejected a DPA appeal and the case was then appealed to the Supreme Court.

Further in the Supreme court opinion, Given wrote:

"While courts always look to the best interests of the child in such controversies, we know of no rule of law requiring the denial of legal custody of an infant to one legally entitled thereto merely because some other person might possibly furnish the child a better home or better care."

In the next 65 years, the earth's population is expected to double to five billion if the present birth rate continues.

Orderly Plan For Paving City Streets Is Asked

Hitting "pet projects" and expensive pathwork, Cumberland's commissioner of streets and public property has called on the city engineering department to furnish an orderly plan for systematic and complete paving of the city's streets.

John J. Long made the request to Carl G. Rickard Jr., assistant city engineer-streets, and parks and planning.

Long called for ideas in writing in the very near future from Rickard and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum concerning an overall plan.

When there is a guide to street work, changes and improvements will have priority. These can be so located and designed that they will further future development of the city, Long said.

The street commissioner said after receiving the ideas of the two engineers, he will present the plan to the Mayor and Council.

The engineering report should be an aid to the street commissioner and the council in determining whether proposed project authorizations are sound, Long believes.

Each time an appropriation is made for a street or alley improvement, it would fall into a part of a system of major arteries for a future state road such as the Thruway, or as part of a planned access road to a growing neighborhood such as south of Oldtown Road, he said.

With such a plan, Long said, he and the members of the council would be able to do the job of improving streets, and resist demands of pressure groups that are advocating unsound "pet projects" which would not fit into the long term proposition.

"It is my opinion that in the past there has been too much time and money spent on 'patching' streets and alleys," he added.

Long suggested that Rickard confer with Franklin J. Blaney, assistant city engineer in charge of sewage and water, for sanitation, storm sewage and utility needs in the plan.

"It is poor economy to construct a street and a few months later tear it up for a sewage or utility line that was overlooked," he said.

Long called for long range street and alley planning and programming consisting of arranging proposed projects in a time schedule for construction.

according to priorities assigned to them, the funds available, and other considerations.

"It is a means to apply the street and alley plan in an orderly manner. Such a program, can be a powerful tool for intelligently and economically shaping the Cumberland of the future," he concluded.

The Dixettes, a group of 12 dancers who study at the Dixon Dance Studio here, will leave Thursday night for New York, where they will appear on the nationally televised Ted Mack Show. The girls, who auditioned twice for the show, were notified yesterday that they will appear this week. Their instructor, Mrs. Verlys McPartland, will accompany them to New York.

Lonaconing Firemen Won't Sell Property

The Good Will Volunteer Fire Company, at Lonaconing, has notified the Mayor and Town Council of Lonaconing that the company will not sell the old glass factory lot to the town for recreational purposes.

Mayor Robert B. Peebles said the town was requested some months ago by business people and civic groups to help provide an area which could be developed as a Little League baseball field and other recreational facility.

After an investigation and study of available plots, it was generally agreed, Mayor Peebles said, that the lot owned by the firemen would be adequate, and a formal offer was made to the fire company.

The mayor noted that the company has been conducting a fund raising drive throughout the community to construct a new fire company headquarters and engine house. In view of this, he said, the council had felt that the sale of this lot would augment the building fund. He noted that the proposed site of the new fire station is not the glass factory lot.

At the council meeting, Street Commissioner Benjamin Evans was authorized to obtain cost estimates to improve a condition at the Hanecamp Street bridge, where a flood was narrowly averted on the night rains from Hurricane Gracie struck the town. There is a 14-foot bridge at this point, under which is a six-foot concrete pipe culvert. Residents claim the culvert is too small and a large opening should be provided. The council agreed and Mr. Evans will contact contractors.

Baby Sitter Class To Open Next Tuesday

The City Recreation Department will sponsor a training course for baby sitters beginning Tuesday, October 13, according to Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director.

Classes will be held at City Hall from 4 to 5 p. m. and will continue for six weeks.

The instruction is being offered for adult baby sitters as well as teen-age girls.

The text to be used will be the "Preliminary Course in Family Relationship for Baby Sitters," prepared by the State Department of Education.

In addition, nurses from the Allegany County Health Department will demonstrate proper bathing and feeding for the very young child.

Mrs. Hogan will be the principal instructor and will demonstrate games that toddlers and pre-school children can play, as well as busy-hands crafts.

One section of the course will consist of a simplified first aid course dealing primarily with what a baby sitter should do in case of an emergency.

A number of pamphlets on subjects of interest to baby sitters will be furnished, and mimeographed outlines will be furnished for each lesson.

A similar course was offered by the Recreation Department last year in connection with the baby sitter lists put out by the department.

Graduates will be placed on the preferred list when the pamphlet is revised early next year.

Sponsorship of the baby sitter lists has proved a popular service of the Recreation Department, especially with newcomers.

National Merit Scholar Semi-Finalists Are Named

Some 10,000 of the nation's most brilliant high school seniors have been designated as semi-finalists in the 1959-60 academic competition conducted by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation but none are from Cumberland or Allegany County.

Last spring over half a million high school students from 14,500 high schools took the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test. The number of semi-finalists is pro-rated according to state population.

On December 5, the semi-finalists will take another rigorous examination, the scholastic aptitude test of the College Entrance Examination Board, which will further confirm their high performance on the NMSQT. Those who repeat their high scores on the second test will become finalists.

The 139 Maryland semi-finalists come from 28 communities. Nearest to here is Miss Patricia A. Carty, a senior at North Hagerstown High School and the lone representative of Washington County.

Maryland's semi-finalists include 36 from Baltimore City, 31 from Bethesda, 14 from Rockville, 13 from Silver Spring, six from Beltsville, five each from Hyattsville and Towson, four from Wheaton, three from McDonogh, two each from Bladensburg, Frederick and Garrett Park, and one each from Bel Air, Brooklandville, Cambridge, Ellicott City, Gaithersburg, Hagerstown, Kensington, LaPlata, Reisterstown, Sandy Spring, Severna Park, St. Michael's, Stevenson, Suitland and Westminster.

West Virginia has 154 semi-finalists. Among them are two from Martinsburg High School, Russell O. Siler and William D. Thompson; one from Masontown High School in Preston County, Thelma S. Moran, and one from Moorefield High School, Jane Ferrell Welton.

Pennsylvania has 623, including large numbers from both Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The only one from this tri-state area is David J. McClemens, a senior at Somerset Joint High School, 461 Tayman Avenue in Somerset.

The Merit Scholarship program is now in its fifth year. It was founded in 1955 with grants of $20 million from the Ford Foundation and $300,000 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. Sponsors thus far have awarded $15 million worth of scholarships.

A clothes budget is more than just a sum of money! It's a buying plan to keep you dressed your best!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Budget Wisdom Is Buying Wisdom

If you've been thinking of your budget as a demon that keeps you from having all the clothes you want, start thinking of it as the good friend that guides you to the wise selections that help you dress more skillfully and attractively.

A budget is never merely a sum of money. It should also be a buying plan for apportioning your purchases and keeping your wardrobe in balance. And in so doing keep you better dressed! Such planning will enable you to get more value, more style, quality, becomingness and appropriateness with each purchase.

When your budget is in proper working order, each new purchase you make will coordinate with a preceding one, and thus give you an extra, hidden value. It will prevent you ever getting stuck with unrelated, special-occasion items that give only limited service. Soon you'll discover that you have acquired the much coveted, basic wardrobe that fits every occasion short of the formal ball!

Achieving this important, all-purpose, basic wardrobe requires the exercise of a good deal of self-discipline. You can never be tempted by the fad or gew-gaw. You've got to adhere to your plan and the rules that protect you against unsafe purchases and insure beautiful and suitable selections.

Whether you are in business and need a two-way wardrobe that covers both office hours and social occasions, or a home manager who needs a three-way wardrobe consisting of stay-at-home, street and dressy clothes, you'll find the following rules apply:

1. Buy only the minimum number of clothes you need at any time.
2. Be sure they are complementary to and interchangeable with each other.
3. Make certain that every purchase contains lines and details that are so non-committal that the hands of the clock cannot dictate the hour or the occasion for wearing.
4. Let your accessories dramatize the mood and the time.
5. Never dress up — dress down!

Seem like a large dose? Actually, it's only a small capsule of advice. But if taken regularly,

Luke School Goes Back To County

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of county school, yesterday notified the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that the Luke School property is being deeded back to the county.

The school building, constructed of brick, is no longer needed for educational purposes.

James G. Stevenson, clerk to the board, was instructed to have an advertisement for bids on the school property drawn up. The county will sell the property to the highest bidder.

It will make you the best-dressed woman in town!

Canadian Railroads
Seek Passengers

While many railroads lament, justifiably, that passenger business is no longer profitable—and then proceed to eliminate as much of this service as possible — Canada's two largest lines, the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific, have decided to make all-out attempts to stage comebacks as major passenger carriers, or bust. Figuratively, at least.

What they are doing is what some of the others have not done — try everything in imagination to make railroads more attractive and profitable to human cargo. On October 1 both railroads initiated two new passenger rates designed to attract more business to each of the services a train provides. Plans frankly have a common objective — to cut fares to the point where sufficient additional patronage will more than make up the difference.

A "group economy" plan has been adopted which goes into effect when two or more adults travel together. This rate applies to coach fare and it matters not whether the passengers are complete strangers or members of the same family. Rate reductions average 17 per cent for two persons, 26 per cent for three and 37 per cent for four or more.

For transcontinental travelers there is an individual package deal covering fare (coach, tourist or first class), meals and tips. As an example of the savings in this plan, the old cost of a return trip from Montreal to Vancouver was $228. This included only a coach seat. This same trip under the package deal, including a berth each way, meals and gratuities is $204. Both economy plans are included in the Canadian National's "go now — pay later" installment plan.

All of which certainly adds up to an earnest attempt to place the rails again on a competitive par with autos, buses and planes in bidding for the sizable business of moving people from one place to another.

The Cracker-Barrel Boast

When Nikita Khrushchev was around these parts, he boasted that his grandfather was a serf, his father was a miner and look at him now!

We have no serfs in this country and it is getting harder to find Negroes whose parents or grandparents were slaves. So we can skip that part. As for the rest, let us look at the record and see what actually happens in a capitalist country.

Who does Khrushchev think Ike Eisenhower is? Does he believe that Ike is a descendant of capitalists? Ike's father was a Mennonite farmer down Abilene way, a simple person in the American fashion who worked with his hands. In Russia, he would be called a peasant. Ike's mother came of the same stock and belonged to the religious sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses, very plain people who ask for little in this world but peace and justice. There were six boys. Ike received his education at the expense of the Government of the United States at West Point. His brothers all did pretty well. Milton Eisenhower went in for agricultural education and finally became president of Johns Hopkins University. There never has been any great wealth in the Eisenhower family.

Or let us have a look at the Vice President, Richard Nixon. Surely, Khrushchev cannot beat Nixon's record for being of the plain people. There never were any great capitalists in the Nixon family. His ancestors, like Eisenhower's, were farmers in Pennsylvania.

Nixon's father, Frank, was an all around worker, generally looking for a job. As Ralph de Toledano says in his biography of Richard Nixon:

"... Restless by nature, extroverted, argumentative, and gregarious, he stayed put for a while and then set out to sample the world. The sampling was wide: glass worker, potter, painter ('I even painted Pullman cars at one time'), potato farmer, sheep rancher in Colorado, pioneer telephone linesman, motorman, roustabout in the oil fields, carpenter ...
"At one time he was even a labor agitator. The Ohio winters were bitter cold, the motorman stood in an open vestibule, and Frank Nixon literally froze his feet. Organizing the other motormen, he beat at the door of the State Legislature demanding enclosed vestibules and better working conditions."

The family settled in California where Frank Nixon opened a country store in the small town of Whittier. It was in this store that the Vice President worked while he tried to get an education. When Nixon sought to become a public man, his friends chipped in to establish a fund to make it possible for him to run for public office. He is a lawyer devoted to public service.

I do not eschew capitalists. I simply make the point that when Khrushchev boasted that a miner's son could become the head of the Russian state, I feel that it is necessary to point out that a Mennonite farmer's son is President of the United States and that a country grocer's son is Vice President.

When Averell Harriman had Khrushchev at his house to meet "the rulers" of the United States, he must have been astonished at the aggregation, for no "rulers" were present and most of those at the tea or cocktail party, whatever it was called, had risen up from backgrounds as lacking in gold as Khrushchev's was.

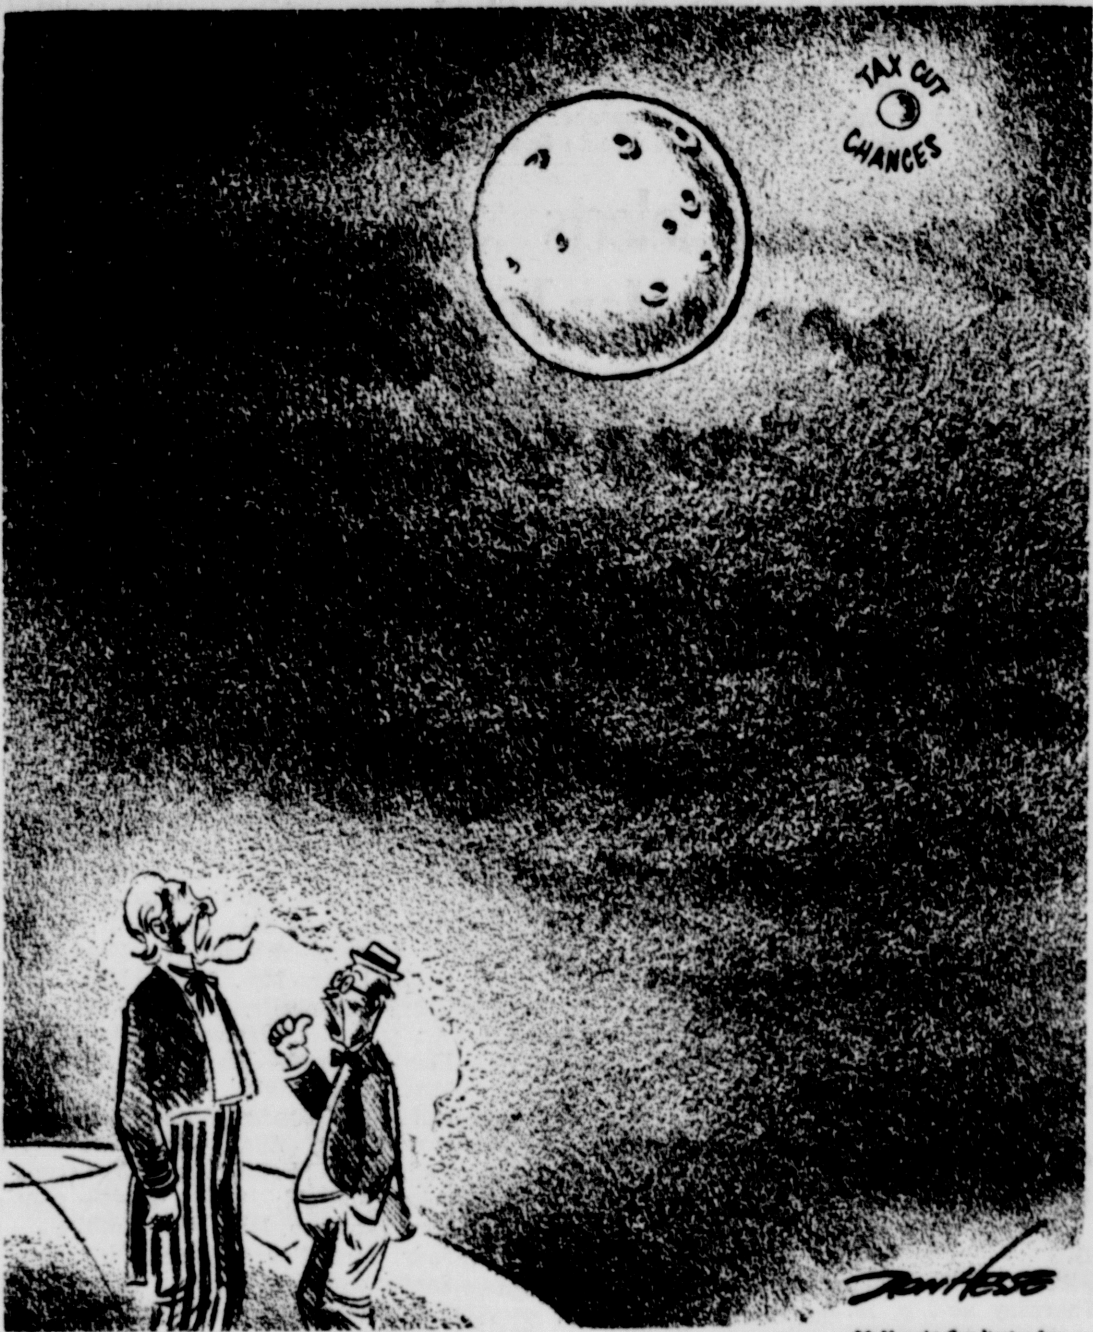

For instance, Averell Harriman had David Sarnoff at his house to meet Khrushchev. Dave Sarnoff was born in Minsk, which must have given Khrushchev a bit of surprise. He now heads the Radio Corporation of America and is one of our most constructive citizens. Also present was Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, who wrote most of President Roosevelt's speeches. Although Sam was born in San Antonio, Texas, his parents were Russian immigrants.

If Khrushchev believes that this country is ruled by "secret" hereditary capitalists, he ought to do some studying. He did not encounter a Gould, a Morgan, a Vanderbilt. He did meet a couple of Rockefellers who still count, although they are already in the third generation of American wealth. We have neither a landed nor a moneyed aristocracy and the only ones who still use titles of nobility are either the dispossessed and defrocked European aristocrats or those unfortunate American girls who marry for an ancient name.

This country still is made up of men and women who build their own careers out of simple but decent and usually religious backgrounds.

'Is The Little One In Outer-Outer Space?'

Language Barrier Does Prove Big Obstacle

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — How big an obstacle to understanding between nations is the language barrier?

A conspicuous example of faulty translation has just been given in the Khrushchev visit. There were several instances in which the questions asked by Americans were inaccurately translated and several instances in which the American people were not given a true translation of what the Soviet Premier said in reply.

Whether there was an attempt by the Russian interpreters to "soften" the words of Mr. Khrushchev is beside the point. The truth is that, to furnish a correct translation, it would have been necessary to use more time. Only an interpreter who knows shorthand and could take down every word and then have a few minutes to translate his notes carefully could have done a 100 per cent job.

Then, too, there are differences as to the fine meanings of words. Naturally, the Soviet Premier preferred his own interpreters, and both the men he used, although they took notes as he spoke, necessarily condensed his remarks in translating what he had said. Again and again, the Soviet Premier talked at length, but the translation was only half as long. The gist, to be sure, was given, but, in anything so important, many listeners prefer to get the whole phrasing so that they can form their own impressions.

Thus, during the question-and-answer period at the National Press Club on September 16, there was a sharp question about Hungary. The interpreter said that Mr. Khrushchev's reply was as follows:

"We, for our part, could think of quite a few questions of similar character."

Actually, according to a tape-recording examined later by expert translators — naturalized

Americans who know Russian — Mr. Khrushchev said:

"I can toss more than one dead cat your way, even fresher, you know, than the question about Hungary."

Maybe if the newsmen present had been given the exact answer, they might have asked the Soviet Premier to tell them the specific instances he had in mind.

Again, when speaking of the Bolshevik Revolution of October 1917, the Soviet Premier, as his remarks were translated, referred to it as what "we consider to be a great date in the history of mankind." But Mr. Khrushchev actually said: "We feel that the time will come when people will count the years, so to speak, from the October Revolution."

When newsmen asked about Stalin's "crimes," the official interpreter used the word "errors" or "distortions." Once, when the reporters asked what is the Soviet schedule for "sending a man to the moon," the interpreter relayed the question to Mr.

Khrushchev as asking when they "plan to throw a man onto the moon." The Soviet Premier then devoted a good part of his answer to explaining that the Soviets "value people very much" and "would not throw a man on to the moon ever," but would "send" a man there some day.

On one occasion — in San Francisco — the Soviet Premier blew up when he was given a question about his fatigue. It was a faulty translation. When heard in English, it was obviously intended as a sympathetic inquiry.

Unfortunately, at the San Francisco meeting with the labor leaders where this episode occurred, no tape recording is believed to have been made. It would be very interesting, indeed, if all the words spoken to and by the Soviet Premier at the public meetings during his visit to the United States were translated accurately now for the benefit of historians.

POOR HEALTH—Chronic conditions affecting health limit the activities of fully one-tenth of the United States population. These startling figures were among the findings of a comprehensive study conducted by the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

According to the survey 17 million people are limited by ailments in their ability to work, keep house, or pursue outside activities.

It was found that limitations to activities were reported most frequently among low income families. In families with less than $2,000 a year, one in every five persons had some chronic condition, while families with incomes of $7,000 or more reported only one in every 15.

As expected, children suffered least and old persons most in activity limitations. Only one in every 70 children under 15 years of age was reported as limited as to activity while half of the persons 75 years old or older fell in this category.

Many Remedies Available For Psoriasis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Those with psoriasis hate to see summer go. With the coming of fall and winter, the beneficial effects of sunshine begin to wane and the skin lesions tend to return. It is part of the game for those who have learned to live with the condition.

Many continue to use a sunlamp along with frequent applications of mild tar ointment that enhances the value of ultraviolet. Others are benefited by related plans of treatment.

Psoriasis develops in isolated areas of the body as plaques of thick silvery scales. One or 100 or more lesions may be present and the scalp, elbows, knees, and lower back are favorite sites. The nails, palms, and soles may be affected. There is no scarring or itching but the constant shedding of scales is embarrassing.

Psoriasis and leprosy looked so much alike to the ancients that the victims of both disorders were forced to live outside the city walls. Nowadays, patients with psoriasis receive better treatment although many persons shy away from the grayish plaques for fear of contamination. This is especially tough on the children who are afflicted. The disease is not contagious.

The cause is not known but physicians who believe psoriasis stems from an internal disorder recommend low-fat, low-cholesterol diets, hormones, vitamins, and anti-infective agents. Others use external remedies containing some form of mercury, sulfur, salicylate, or tar.

The pharmaceutical industry offers more than 60 compounded remedies and every physician has a favorite prescription that he writes for his patients. But remedies galore mean that no one plan cures all cases. When such a wonder medicine is discovered, all the others will be tossed aside.

Phoniness In TV Investigation
As Well As Commercials Cited

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — There's been some interesting backstage play behind the Congressional investigation of TV quiz shows. One was the fact that the Senate Commerce Committee also wanted to probe these rigged programs but was stopped, largely by parsimonious Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island.

He objected to the Senate's spending $4,500 for a stenographic copy of the grand jury record in New York. The grand jury called by District Attorney Frank Hogan in New York to probe TV program-rigging had transcribed the long and secret testimony of various witnesses, but it would have been necessary to buy a stenographic copy. Senator Pastore objected to paying for the stenographic work.

So the Harris Committee of the House proceeded with the probe instead.

The Harris Committee has been at sixes and sevens among its own members ever since Chairman Oren Harris of Arkansas teamed up with Republicans over a year ago to fire Bernard Schwartz, the New York University professor, who took seriously his assignment of probing the Federal Communications Commission. When he revealed that several of the commissioners had taken long trips at the expense of the radio-TV industry which they were supposed to regulate, the pressure against investigation got terrific. And Schwartz was fired.

Since then the alleged investigation has coasted pleasantly along without ruffling too many waters. The current flare-up over fixed TV quiz programs is ready-made for headlines and is getting them. But some of Harris's committee members want to dig deeper. They want to dig into some of the phoniness of the TV industry, including TV commercials.

TV Phoniness

If newspapers printed some of the ads that millions of viewers see on television, either the Federal Trade Commission or the Food and Drug Administration would be on their necks in two minutes.

Furthermore, some of the Democratic investigators point out that the Madison Avenue ad agencies which put this type of advertising across on the public are the same agencies which ganged up to monopolize the air waves for the Republicans in the 1952 and 1956 elections.

Here are some of the TV commercials, concocted by these ad agencies and seen by millions, which some Congressmen want to include in their TV probe:

The Automobile Which Never Spills Water — To illustrate the easy ride of one well-known car, a glass of water is shown on the front panel as it travels through the countryside. Photographers who have shot this commercial say the car never moves, but that a moving background is projected on the screen behind the car.

The Wax That Polishes Instantaneously — A well-known brand of floor wax is shown bringing gloss to a floor with one application. But what the viewer doesn't know is that the floor has been buffed and polished for two days, then a film of dust sprinkled over it just before the commercial is photographed.

The Margarine That Glistens—When millions of viewers see a certain type of margarine on TV contrasted to butter, what they don't know is that before the commercial is filmed, the margarine is covered with glycerine drops. The butter is not.

The Detergent That Scours — In advertising detergents, a dirty sink is sometimes shown with two kinds of detergents used to clean it up. One does an excellent job, the other does not. What the viewer doesn't know is that sandpaper is attached to the bottom of the sponge which does the good job.

This is some of the advertising which Congressmen believe should be included in the TV probe along with rigged TV quiz programs.

How To Handle Russians

Roswell Garst, the Coon Rap-

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The thing I always liked about the travelogues was the end, where we see the setting sun on the rippling water, and a man's voice says: "As we say farewell to the friendly natives . . . 'I could always imagine the friendly natives throwing poison-tipped spears at the cameraman."

Some day I'd like to do a series of world travelogues . . . However, I would want to do it with realism. There are little truths which we ought to know about. Instead of depicting London by showing the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace, I would like to show some of the outrageous stories about America in their newspapers. The more we do for England, the more the newspapers despise us.

Nowhere in the world are the ethics of newspaper work in lower estate than in England. In France, they rob Americans with a huge smile. There is nothing cheap about living in a good Paris hotel. On the Riviera, I found that prices were higher than at home.

Our 600,000 tourists do not make America look good. There are cheap hagglers who always manage to come up with the ultimate insult: "How much is that in real money, honey?"

In Cairo, our American school-teachers go to see a belly dance show and burst into laughter. Why? Because belly dancers start at 180 pounds in Egypt and go higher. Egyptian men think that fat women are most exciting. They do not appreciate the silvery laughter of the Yankees.

It is difficult for an American to think of himself as a foreigner when he is abroad. He thinks the natives are foreigners. Often, he proclaims loudly that they are stupid because they speak no English. He begs to see the lower native quarters, and when he goes there, he squirms away from the squalor pinching his nostrils.

The only place where I found admiration for Americans is in Italy. These people, in Naples, in Rome, in Milan, appear to have no envy. They do not object to the camera-slung tourists who ask the price of a hat, or a pair of custom-made shoes, and then cleverly offer half.

We would have to put some American tourists in the film. Some fat mommas in two-piece tweed suits, bulging out of the top and bottom like a tube of toothpaste squeezed in the middle.

The 12-year-old redhead who ran the elevator in the Imperial ids corn farmer, has worked out a theory in regard to cooperation with the Russians. He says it works in ordinary business, and should work also in diplomacy.

"You've got to be tough but honest with the Russians," he said after the Khrushchev visit to his farm was over. "They'll respect you for being tough. But you must also be absolutely honest."

"Some time ago, the Russians wanted to buy some new corn planters. In fact, they ordered them," illustrated Garst. "They ordered the corn planters that we had used for years in this country, which plant the seed in even squares, row by row, with the rows far enough apart so a cultivator can get in between the rows to keep the weeds down."

"I told them that this was a waste. We now plant corn with herbicides which kill the weeds. So we don't need to cultivate in between the rows. Therefore, we don't need such wide rows of corn."

"However, Amtorg went ahead and ordered these corn planters anyway," continued Garst, referring to the Soviet trading agency which buys for Russia in the United States.

"When I heard about it I said 'I won't okay the order.' I knew Moscow wouldn't go through with it if I didn't okay it."

"So, with these machines almost on the dock ready to be shipped, I said 'no.' They were never shipped. The Russians realized that I was tough but I was tough for their interest and in the end they appreciated it."

"That," said Garst, "is the way you have to be with the Russians."

Non-Presidential State

Some of our best presidential timber sometimes comes from low-calorie electoral areas which have little voice in the national conventions. For this reason, men like "Mike" Monroney, rangy, likable U. S. Senator from Oklahoma, are seldom seriously considered by the political bosses.

Monroney, one of the most able but self-effacing members of the Senate, was once chosen by Colliers' magazine as the outstanding "public servant" in Congress. More recently a small presidential boom for Monroney got under way.

"A weekly newspaper in Oklahoma whose publisher was a friend, was running a number of editorials in my behalf," reported the Oklahoma Senator whimsically. "But the editorials suddenly stopped."

"What happened?" asked a newsmen.

"The paper changed hands." (Copyright, 1959, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Speaking of the past U.S. Presidents, historian Rex Tugwell noted, "It is a remarkable comment on the Presidency that the processes of party politics, so often corrupt, boss-managed and infiltrated with venal arts, have never deposited a man in the White House who was wholly unworthy."

During the Taft Administration, the White House staff suddenly became convinced that ghosts of departed Presidents still were roaming about the premises. Things reached a point where President Taft had to forbid any mention of ghosts — though he admitted privately he liked to hear about them himself!

Some years later, Margaret Truman picked up the story about Lincoln's shade being about, and she and a couple of schoolmates slept one night in the unused Lincoln room, hoping for heaven knows what. Her father toyed with the idea of hiring a ghost for the occasion but, wary of unfavorable publicity, thought better of it.

Frostburg City Council Adopts Four Changes

Action Regulates Parking, Retirement

FROSTBURG—Four changes in city regulations were effected at the City Council meeting held Monday evening at the City Hall.

Ordinance 173, which regulates parking during winter months, was amended. Previously, parking was prohibited on Main Street from West city limits to Grant Street; Water from Main to College Avenue and Broadway from College Avenue to Main, from November 1 to April 1 during the hours of 2 a. m. until 6 a. m. The ordinance was amended to include Main Street from Grant to the East city limits. Parking will now be prohibited the entire length of the street from West to East City limits. The purpose of the "No Parking" is to facilitate removal of snow on the main streets of the city.

Ordinance 492 was passed and becomes effective January 1, 1960. It provides an age limit for retirement of city employees. The ordinance states that at 65 a person is eligible for retirement, however, upon making application to and receiving permission from the council he may work on a year to year basis until age 70 when it becomes mandatory that he resign.

A third ordinance, No. 493 was passed and becomes effective immediately. It regulates the establishment and maintenance in the city limits of a trailer for dwelling purposes. A permit must be secured and each trailer must be equipped with a connection for city water and city sewers. Prior inspection must be made by the city engineer as to location. Failure to secure the permit brings a fine not to exceed $10 a day as long as the violation exists.

The fourth change was a resolution which was passed to amend the City Charter permitting extension of the city limits at the eastern edge of the city to embrace 15 1/2 acres of land. The property now owned by the Maryland Coal and Realty Company will be developed immediately with two streets which will be graded to city specifications, sewers and water lines. Upon annexation these utilities will be turned over to the city. The proposed addition runs North Pleasant Street. The new line is approximately 380 feet long. It then will run East to Route 40.

According to the city attorney, Edward J. Ryan, the resolution must be published in a local newspaper once a week for four weeks. A public hearing must then be held within 15 days. After a 45-day wait following the hearing an ordinance may be drawn, making the resolution a law.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — It just didn't War II. Van plays the captain of stand to reason that TV's popular a merchant raider and Charlie is Perry Como (love that man) the Allied commander sent out to could long resist a movie offer. sink him. Picture starts shortly And it is Buddy Adler, boss of in Italy.

20th Century Fox, who has come up with the story that really appeals to Perry. "The Great St. Bernard." The Walter Resch story is about Brother Raoul, a young monk at the monastery in the Swiss Alps famous for the training of St. Bernard dogs for rescue mission. While Buddy was recently in New York he went over the project thoroughly with Perry.

Of course, shooting can't start until June of '60 when Perry completes his TV season. But this turns into a lucky break as June is the one month the monastery is accessible to outsiders.

Don't say I told you—but the person really plugging hard for Perry to accept this is Mrs. Como and the children who would love the trip.

Received a long handwritten letter from Van Heflin with news about finishing "Jovanka and the Others" in Austria (which I could decipher) and word of his new movie (which I couldn't). This might have remained a mystery if the same day a cable hadn't come in from Charles Laughton. Laughton's legible cable stated that he will co-star with Van in Dino Di Laurentiis "Under Ten Flags", a sea thriller of World War 12 years old. While she was in Europe she played the femme lead in "Our Man In Havana," with Alec Guinness, and "Gulliver's Travels" in Spain.

It's only fair, I think, to give credit where credit is due. I've criticized Tuesday Weld, and I still think her public behavior is often shocking, but I do feel she should be patting on the back for the way she takes care of her mother. She bought a house in Beverly Hills for her mother and herself, and has taken out a large paid up life insurance policy, naming her mother as beneficiary.

Another young man will make his debut in Hollywood movies. He is Joe Gallison, whom talent scout Max Arnow found in New York. He joins Sidney Poitier, Alan Ladd, James Darren, Glenn Corbett and Ingemar Johansson for "All The Young Men" at Columbia, the Hall Bartlett movie.

Joe is described as being very attractive and aside from the fact that he was an actor on the New York stage and is very good-looking, that is all I know about him and all you will know until you see him in "All The Young Men."

It's a source of great joy to Joe Pasternak that he has been named the year's outstanding American of Hungarian descent by the American-Hungarian Community of Cleveland, Ohio. Outside of Budapest, Cleveland boasts of having the largest Hungarian population in the world, and on October 25th, Joe will be presented with the annual award.

The Bowman's Addition Fire Company gave a demonstration Monday at Northeast Elementary School to emphasize the observance of "National Fire Prevention Week."

Raymond Skidmore, principal, said Fire Chief Leo Emerick and James Mallow, Edward Nies and John Hipsley gave the demonstration. Hipsley also spoke to the children at an assembly program.

The children in Miss Joan Kidwell's third and fourth grades will visit the Bowman's Addition Fire Hall on Friday to tour the hall and inspect the fire-fighting equipment.

Water Drainage Problem Heard

Two residents of the Flintstone section, Willie Perrin and Curtis Haller, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to complain about the condition of Hartsock Road.

The men said that water drainage from U. S. Route 40 where it intersects the Hartsock Road on the east side of Martins Mountain has caused the roadway to become rutted and ditches to be filled with rocks and debris.

Surplus Food Contract Is Renewed Here

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday approved the renewal of an agreement with the state and federal governments pertaining to surplus foods.

For almost a year the county has been distributing surplus federal commodities to needy and low income groups in the county. A total of $12,700 has been set up in the current budget for this program.

During the discussion on the agreement, which can be terminated by either of the parties on 30 days notice, the commissioners commented that there are only four items of surplus food on the list of donable items and the program in one sense does not merit the expense involved.

Last winter the Garrett County Board of Commissioners terminated its program on the basis the type of food available was not worth the cost involved.

Playlot Meeting Set

The Gephart Playground Association will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the playlot to discuss plans for the winter ice skating season. Parents and members interested in supervision are urged to attend, according to association officers.

Road Relocation Meeting Sought

A meeting will be sought by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners with the B&O Railroad and Western Maryland Railway on the proposed relocation of the Mexico Farms Road.

A letter was received yesterday from F. H. Etchison, chief engineer of the Western Maryland, stating that a meeting had been held jointly by the county and two railroads concerning the project and offering to meet again on the matter.

The present Board of County Commissioners did not participate in the 1958 session.

The letter was timely in that yesterday from a Mexico Farms man, Edwin Shank, to have something done about protective devices at the two grade crossings located in that section.

Shank said that there are no warning lights at the two crossings and that many autos traverse them daily. He also said it poses a danger to children on their way to school.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that the matter of the two crossings will be brought up at the meeting.

Clutch Pitching Gives White Sox 1-0 Series Victory

Great Catch By Rivera Saves Game

92,706 See Dick Donovan Halt LA Bases-Loaded Rally

By JACK HAND
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Shaw, Billy Pierce and Dick Donovan teamed up for the first three-pitcher shutout in World Series history Tuesday to keep the Chicago White Sox alive with a 1-0 victory over Los Angeles in the fifth game.

A sensational running catch by Jim Rivera near the fence in right center in the seventh saved Shaw, and Donovan's brilliant clutch pitching with the bases loaded in the eighth stopped the last Dodger threat.

The White Sox' second victory cut the Dodgers' series lead to 3-2 and sent the series back to Comiskey Park in Chicago where the sixth game will be played Thursday afternoon. Chicago also will be the site of the seventh game, if necessary, on Friday afternoon. Wednesday will be an off day for travel.

Set Attendance Mark
Another roaring throng that set a series attendance mark of 92,706 squirmed through Dodger uprisings in the seventh and eighth. Each time they failed to break through the Sox for that one precious run.

Chicago scored the only run in the fourth after Nellie Fox and Jim Landis ripped singles to right field. Fox raced to third on Landis' hit and romped home while Sherm Lollar was hitting into a double play.

The brain cells of the rival managers throbbed with activity in the frantic eighth when pinch hitter followed pinch hitter and Al Lopez artfully juggled his pitching staff.

Rivera's running grab of Charlie Neal's curving fly ball came when the Dodgers had men on second and third with two gone in the seventh. Lopez had just put Rivera into the game as a defensive measure in an outfield switch.

The real dramatics of this sunny afternoon came in the eighth when three Dodgers were left on base for an appalling total of 11 although they out-hit the Sox 9-5.

Shaw, the victim of three homers in the second game at Chicago, had allowed seven hits, including a fourth-inning triple by Gil Hodges. But he had shut the door every time.

Wally Moon opened the eighth with an easy fly ball to center that looked like a sure out. Landis lost track of the gleaming ball in the dazzling sunshine against the white-shirted background and let it squirt out of his glove. It was scored as a hit.

Norm Larker, missing one bunt attempt, took the count to 3-1 before he fouled off a pitch. Then he lofted to Rivera for the first out. Hodges, Monday's home run hero, lined his third hit of the day, a single, just past the itching glove of Fox and Moon raced to third. Hodges had hit a screaming foul into the left field stands a few moments earlier, prompting Lopez to make a quick trip to the mound for a conference with Shaw.

Pinch-Batter Lifted
When Ron Fairly, a left-handed batter, was sent up to hit for Don Demeter, Lopez decided Shaw had enough. He called to the bullpen for southpaw Billy Pierce.

Walter Alston, the Dodgers' mastermind, quickly switched to a right-handed batter, Rip Repulski. After all this maneuvering, Pierce was ordered to pass Repulski intentionally, loading the bases.

Trumpets blared and the big crowd yelled "Charge" as Carl Furillo, Sunday's hero in the ever-changing parade of Dodger stars, came up to bat for Johnny Roseboro. Once again Alston was playing the book, subbing a right-handed batter for a lefty with a southpaw doing the pitching.

Lopez ducked out of the dugout for his third trip of the inning and waved in Donovan, the tough luck loser of Sunday's game.

Donovan, yanked Sunday when he still was locked in a 0-0 battle, worked carefully on Furillo. First a ball. Then a called strike. Next a foul ball.

Furillo went for the next pitch and lofted a high pop to Bubba Phillips at third base.

That brought up Don Zimmer.

Alston Calls Rivera Move Key To Win

Dodgers To Start Podres Thursday

By CHARLES MAHER
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodger dressing room was quiet as a library when Manager Walter Alston strode in, took a chair in front of a table and told a knotted pack of reporters:

"I thought you fellows might all be over in the other place today, with the winners."

"Hey, Walt," said one of the newsmen, "I notice the sign is still up."

In large, chalked letters on the blackboard behind Alston were the words which seemed to carry more certainty Monday than Tuesday.

"One to Go-Go-Go," said the sign.

"That still stands," said Alston. "This was a well played ball game all the way through," he continued. "By both sides. We had a little luck earlier in the series. I don't know whether we were unlucky today, but we had a couple of balls hit just foul — one by Charlie Neal that was just inches away from a homer. I don't know whether that's bad luck or not. I guess it's just baseball."

Alston reaffirmed his decision to start left-hander Johnny Podres — winner of the second series game at Chicago — on Thursday at Comiskey Park.

"Podres will have had plenty of rest," Walt said, "and he should be all right. But I can't expect any better pitching than I got today from (Sandy) Koufax."

"I've seen Koufax throw harder, I guess, but I thought he pitched a real good ball game. In fact, you couldn't want it much better."

Koufax went seven innings and allowed just five hits but gave up the run that brought Chicago its 1-0 victory.

Alston was questioned closely about the complicated pinch-hitting situation that came up in the eighth inning. With one out, Wally Moon was on third and Gil Hodges on second. Both had singled. Don Demeter was due up against right hander Bob Shaw, but Alston had left-handed-swinging Ron Fairly announced as a pinch hitter.

White Sox Manager Al Lopez countered by replacing Shaw with left-hander Billy Pierce, and Alston countered this by sending Rip Repulski, a right-handed batter, in to replace Fairly.

Why wasn't it the old pro, Carl Furillo, instead of Repulski?

"I didn't want to send Furillo up in this situation," Alston said, "because with first base open I figured they'd walk him."

Repulski was walked intentionally and the bases were loaded when Furillo came up as a pinch hitter for catcher Johnny Roseboro — and popped out.

Alston praised Lopez for a move he made in the seventh inning. With two out, two Dodgers on base and Charlie Neal up, Lopez sent Jim Rivera out to replace Al Smith in right field. Rivera responded by making a fine running catch of Neal's long drive to right center.

"I'll give Al a helluva lot of credit for that one," said Alston. "He made the right move at the right time."

Nugent Shifts Maryland Squad

Breedlove Is Put Back At Guard Spot

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland football Coach Tom Nugent shook up his starting team Tuesday in an effort to get the Terrapins back on the winning track Saturday against Wake Forest.

Only one member of the backfield which started against Syracuse last week will open against Wake Forest. That's fullback Jim Joyce.

Dick Novak has come off the injured list to reclaim the No. 1 quarterback job, and Nugent promoted halfbacks Gene Verardi and Everett Cloud over last week's starters, Jim Davidson and Bob Gallagher.

Nugent also moved Tony Scotti to the right end spot and reconverted halfback Rod Breedlove to guard.

Breedlove, from Cumberland, won honorable All-America mention and first team on the Atlantic Coast Conference all-star team as a guard in his sophomore and junior years.

Breedlove did not see much action at halfback in Maryland's first three games, and Nugent said Tuesday he needs his help at the left guard spot.

Nugent switched end Joe Mona, the Terps' leading pass catcher, to right halfback to fill Breedlove's spot there.

Novak, who sprained an ankle in Maryland's second game, returned to action with the first unit today. He wore a "red cross" shirt to prevent any hard knocks, but was running and passing well.

Four Cumberland Women Enter Golf Tournament

BALTIMORE (AP) — Only 16 golfers will challenge defending champion Jane Schiller of Salisbury in the Lillian Payne Cup tournament starting Wednesday at the Country Club of Maryland.

The 20-year-old Miss Schiller won the 54-hole tournament last year at Washington's Congressional Country Club with a score of 248.

Cumberland will send four contestants, Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie, Mrs. W. R. Hodges, Mrs. William Bibby and Mrs. R. W. Trevasik Jr., to the tourney in which 18 holes will be played for three days.

Other entrants include Mrs. Joseph Singhaas of All-View, Mrs. Roland De Launey of Prince Georges, and Mrs. Alexander Gordon 3d of Elkridge.

White Sox Confident Of Victory

Early Wynn Gets Call To Pitch

By JERRY LISKA
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We're going to win this thing now," chortled jubilant Manager Al Lopez in the gay White Sox dressing room Tuesday.

First White Sox player to bustle into the clubhouse after the White Sox' thrilling 1-0 victory in this fifth World Series game was veteran pitcher Early Wynn, who gets the Thursday call in Comiskey Park.

"Now you sports writers, you're going back to the big barn," Wynn hollered at the milling writers.

Jungle Jim Rivera who made a game-saving catch of Charlie Neal's poke to deep right center with Dodgers on third and second said:

"I just ran for the fence and there the ball was. I didn't bother snapping down my sun glasses, because they don't help out here."

Dick Donovan quietly discussed his masterful relief job in the eighth inning "checker game" between both managers which came with another Dodger threat with men on second and third and one out.

"I got (Carl) Furillo on a fast ball and (Don) Zimmer on a slider," said Donovan.

"I wish I could honestly say I was completely calm out there — but I wasn't. This was all or nothing at all."

Lopez said he switched Al Smith from right field to left and inserted Rivera in right field in the seventh because:

"Smith is our regular left fielder and Rivera is our regular right fielder. They've played that way all season."

Some observers thought the change was made to put Smith's fine throwing arm in left field in case the Dodgers rattled any hits off the Coliseum's "Chinese Curtain."

"We'll never find out what would have happened if I didn't grinned Lopez.

"Just like I said before the game, if we win this one, we win the series. Now I say it again."

The White Sox players whooped it up in the showers, shouting ribs at writers who had written them out of the series.

"Now we go back to a ball park," said shortstop Luis Aparicio. "I worry all the time about playing this field. You have no way to find the ball when the batter hits it. I like it for money, if first four series games are played in Coliseum. But if we play the Dodgers in World Series next year, I hope they have a new ball park."

Rivera told a horde of writers: "I had Neal's ball all the way. Sure, I hustled after it. It meant a little more meal money."

Donovan conceded "This has got to be my tightest pitching spot."

Valley's perennial champion Black Knights took over undisputed first place in the Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League yesterday by handing Bruce High's Bulldogs a 2-0 defeat at Lonaconing.

The triumph was the second in a row this season and kept the Knights' amazing unbeaten streak in the loop intact. The Valley team has not lost a league encounter since 1953.

Both Valley goals came in the third period after the two teams, who shared the title last year, battled to a scoreless deadlock through the first half.

Jim Pollock broke the ice when he booted home a goal following a long pass from Jim Getty. Later in the period Jerry Winner scored on a hard smash through the posts from a scrimmage in front of the goal.

In the second period Valley missed an opportunity to take the lead when Robert Brown missed a penalty kick.

Outstanding players for Valley were Bill Garlitz, Wade Grove, Larry McKenzie and Wayne Johnson. Best for Bruce were Paul Wilson, Joe Price and Roy Beard.

At Frostburg in another league encounter the Mt. Savage Braves scored with less than two minutes to play to tie Beall High's Mountaineers, 2-2.

Beall, victorious last week over Flintstone, was leading 2-1 by virtue of a field goal by Fred Hall in the third quarter after Jimmy Duncan had booted home a penalty kick earlier in the period.

Mt. Savage, completely dominating play in the final quarter, controlled the ball for 10 of the 12½ minutes of the period, and knotted the score on Leroy Morris' field goal.

Duncan missed another penalty kick in the third quarter which could have given Beall the victory.

Mt. Savage scored first in the second period when Dale Hott booted home a field goal to give

Thompson Sets Speed Record

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—American speed king Mickey Thompson flashed across the salt flats here Tuesday for a new U.S. land speed record, but again failed to break the record for the international measured mile.

Fails To Eclipse Cobb's 394 Mark

Thompson's average for two runs through the one mile speed traps was 367.83 miles per hour, considerably better than his previous record of 330.51 miles per hour set on Aug. 25, 1959, but far below the record of 394.2 miles per hour set by the late Englishman John Cobb in 1947.

He also set four international marks for longer distances Tuesday, including the five and 10 kilometer runs and five and 10 mile distances. The new marks are: five kilometers 345.33 miles per hour; 10 kilometers 327.59 miles per hour; five miles 340.70 miles per hour; 10 miles 286.16 miles per hour.

"Driving this course was like walking on marbles," Thompson said after the longer distance runs.

who had run for Chuck Essegian in the seventh and remained in to play shortstop. Zimmer hadn't been at bat since Sept. 2, and hadn't hit safely since Aug. 24. He had been warming the bench since losing his shortstop job to Maury Wills.

Zimmer lofted Donovan's second pitch to Al Smith in left and the side was out.

The three pinch hitters, when Alston, fresh out of hitters, sent up pitcher Larry Sherry to bat for pitcher Stan Williams in the ninth, the use of a sixth pinch batter set a series high for a game.

The seventh inning was almost as tense as the eighth with Shaw bobbing and weaving as he pitched his way out of trouble with the help of River's great catch.

Essegian Walks

Roseboro had flied out to start the seventh but Essegian, hitting for Wills, walked. Zimmer ran for him.

Out of the dugout came Duke Snider, the Dodgers' big power man for years, to swing for Sandy Koufax. Koufax had allowed only five hits and fanned six in a fine seven-inning effort.

Snider bounced a grounder to shortstop Luis Aparicio who forced Zimmer at second. Alston went to his bench for pitcher Johnny Podres as a runner for Snider, who hasn't been playing regularly because of an old knee injury.

Junior Gilliam, who had singled in the first, third and fifth, followed with his fourth straight hit, tying another series mark shared by 29 men. Gilliam's fourth hit was a single off the "Iron Curtain" in left field.

Lopez made the move that saved the game as Neal came to bat. He sent Rivera to right and shunted Smith to left, benching Jim McAnany.

Shaw's third offering to Neal was a wild pitch that scooted away from Sherm Lollar, letting Podres take third and Gilliam move to second.

Shaw went to a 3-2 count on Neal, the man who hit two homers off him last Friday in Chicago. Then Neal sent that long fly toward right center. It was apparent Landis wouldn't get there. Rivera was running as soon as the ball was hit and gathered it in, near the fence.

The three games played in the Coliseum drew 277,750 fans, an incredible attendance record. The player pool hit a high Monday. Tuesday's receipts of $552,774.77 again set a record.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—American speed king Mickey Thompson flashed across the salt flats here Tuesday for a new U.S. land speed record, but again failed to break the record for the international measured mile.

Kangaroo Hunters Making Money

IVANHOE, Australia (UPI)—Professional hunters are making good money these days shooting kangaroos.

Kangaroo meat sells for only fourpence (four cents) a pound for dog food; it is not a popular table delicacy here. But the skins sell for up to 17 shillings (two dollars) each—about 60 pence (56 cents) a pound, compared with 45 pence (42 cents) a pound for wool.

But it's not just a matter of picking up a pea rifle and letting the kangaroo population, one fly. For a start, you must have an army-type .303 caliber rifle; the nothing less will stop a 'roo, and next bloke's place."

MODUGNO OF THE MOVIES HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Donnenico Modugno, whose "Volare" was a smash hit in the United States, will play the part of Sophia Loren's boy friend in "The Bay of Naples" for Paramount.

even then the head must be the target.

One shooter in this town "just down the road" from Broken Hill—about 200 miles—said he was making $225 a week from skins. He could easily make more but he hasn't the time to skin any more kangaroos if he shoots them.

Asked whether shooting them would ever make a sizable dent in picking up a pea rifle and letting the kangaroo population, one fly. For a start, you must have an army-type .303 caliber rifle; the nothing less will stop a 'roo, and next bloke's place."

Lewis Assigned Parole Officer

James F. (Red) Lewis, a former local resident, has been assigned as parole officer for Allegany and Garrett counties.

Lewis, a former member of the Maryland State Police at the LaVale barracks, is temporarily filling the duties of David M. Stee, regular parole officer who has been hospitalized several weeks.

He resigned the State Police here in August of 1957 to accept a position at Works No. 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company. In July of 1958 he resigned this position to work for the Department of Work and Probation.

Since July of 1958, Lewis has been working as a parole officer in the Baltimore area.

Pharlez-vous Francais?

PARIS (UPI)—Everyone else seems to have tried it, and now Paris' Cafe de la Paix has tried it, too: Preparing a handy phonetic guide for non-Frenchmen who want to speak a few words of the native language.

The Cafe de la Paix people have gone further than most, however. Their table napkins are overprinted with phonetic guides not only for those whose native language is English, but also for Germans and Italians.

English-speaking people, for example, are advised, when asking for the check, to say, "Doonay mooa ladeesseown seel voo ple." Germans are told to say, "Donna ey moal' additziohn z'u wu plaeh."

MEET SPECIAL AGENT HARDESTY—OF THE F.B.I.

He's got a wife, three kids and nine lives—and he needed them all ...

Once he lived for 3 months in the middle of a vicious murder-for-profit ring ... and once he died for 5 seconds staring into the guns of 'Baby Face' Nelson ...

Don't ask him about a manhunt in Yankee Stadium, a certain bank stick-up in Iowa, a night outside a Chicago theatre, a Memphis rooming-house ... he won't tell you.

His life story is secret, 'inside' F.B.I. material ... and it was filmed at actual locations to give full force to all the authentic thrills of

The bidding:

West North East South

1 ♠ Double Pass 2 ♠

2 ♠ 3 ♠ Pass 5 ♠

Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.

Declarer was the victim of a blind spot today. The contract appeared to him to hinge on a club finesse and nothing served to change his mind.

The game contract in diamonds was reached on sound though aggressive bidding. North did not have the ideal type of double, but a mere two diamond overcall appeared inadequate to him. South's leap to five diamonds after his partner's free raise was reasonable because of his appealing distribution and the fact that his original response had been mild.

West opened the king of spades and continued the suit, which South ruffed. Declarer then led a trump to dummy, cashed the ace and king of hearts and ruffed out dummy's remaining spade. He now led the jack of hearts, which West covered with the queen, and declarer ruffed in dummy. It was then his purpose to pass a club trick into the West hand and force a favorable lead.

He played the deuce from dummy, intending to put in the seven from his own hand. Had East played in the listless manner characteristic of the player holding a Yarborough, declarer would have gotten away with his ruse, for West would win the trick and be forced to make a suicidal lead. But East, alerted by the stripping out process, put

In Memoriam

In memory of Robert Fleck who died 12 years ago, October 7, 1947. The roses are blooming again and the flowers we loved so well just as they were 12 years ago. When we said our last farewell. When we placed flowers on your grave. We think of you more. Sadly missed by wife, daughter, son.

Market Rallies After Ike Uses T-H in Dock Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market creating a fact-finding board to report back to him by Oct. 10. Wall Street spotted tax selling in oil shares where new lows were set by Jersey Standard, Sinclair, Skelly and Superior Oil of California.

The market met late support on the President's statement that he was determined to prevent the American people from losing in the steel strike. The 80-day "cooling off" provision of the Taft-Hartley would put the crippled steel industry back into gear.

Another stimulant came in the active issue traded with 55,300 President's use of the T-H in the shares. Rounding out the top five East Coast and Gulf port dock were Studebaker-Packard, Rhode-strike. He took the first step in use of the labor relations act by Hertz.

Police To Press City Charges In Traffic Cases

Procedure Goes Into Effect October 19

The Cumberland Police Department will begin making arrests for traffic violations on city charges instead of state charges on Monday, October 19, according to Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Mr. Fleming yesterday sent a memorandum to Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney on the subject of arrests for traffic violations.

He said all members of the Cumberland Police Department must familiarize themselves with certain provisions of Chapter 11 of the Cumberland Charter ("Everstone's 1950 edition") within 10 days because of the change in arrest procedure.

All officers, the commissioner said, must use the city "Notice Of Arrest" booklet.

The only time that the State of Maryland "Report of Arrest and Trial" book will be used, he said, is when the arrest is being made in connection with a state violation other than a traffic regulation, adding:

To Be State Charge

"For an offense such as driving a motor vehicle under the influence (of liquor or drugs), a state charge will have to be made as the city has no such charge."

Mr. Fleming advised Chief Gaffney that certain sections of Chapter 11 of the city charter must be almost memorized by every member of the Police Department.

He listed seven sections which he estimated would cover about 95 per cent of the arrests made in connection with traffic violations. They are:

Section 4—obedience to traffic devices; Section 10—careless driving (not to be used in speed cases); Section 11—restrictions on speed; Section 12—driving restrictions; Section 18—right of way; Section 22—horns and sirens, and Section 26—penalties.

"This order," the commissioner said, "is being made only to change procedures as to arrest."

To Retain Fines

"Heretofore you have been making arrests for speeding on state charges rather than on city charges and the fine has been going to the state and county. When an arrest is being made on a city charge, any fine that is imposed will be retained by the city."

Mr. Fleming said the memorandum should be read at each shift and that a copy should be given to the officer in charge of each shift as well as to the detective force.

Letters are being sent to Peter J. Carpentieri and F. Allan Weatherholt, who serve as magistrates of the Cumberland Police Court, advising them that the trials on city traffic violation charges will be in Police Court.

The city will ask the police magistrates to adopt a fine schedule similar to that used when state charges are preferred.

The Mayor and Council recently suggested to the Legislative Council of Maryland that Cumberland should share in fines paid by traffic violators arrested through the use of radar.

At the meeting, Commissioner Fleming pointed out that from June 1 to August 19, the Police Department made 269 arrests as a result of using radar equipment.

He said the state received $2,515 and Allegany County $295.75 from the cases, while the city, which furnished and maintained the equipment and detailed officers to the duty, got nothing.

Judge Dissolves Injunction Against SRC

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday dissolved a temporary injunction which had prevented the State Roads Commission from interfering with the operations of the Wolford service station and tavern along U. S. Route 40 at the foot of Martin's Mountain since July 15, 1958.

His action was taken following a hearing in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday.

The injunction had been obtained by Thomas R. Wolford and Nellie K. Wolford, his wife, lessees of the Martin's Mountain property, and Mrs. Hattie V. Wolford, owner of the premises.

The dispute began on or about February 10, 1956, when the State Roads Commission filed a condemnation suit in Circuit Court for part of the Wolford property needed in conjunction with the construction of the new U. S. Route 40 on Martin's Mountain.

The SRC deposited a check for $25,000 at that time with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, representing what the state agency considered a fair price for the property sought.

Later, when the Wolfords cited additional damage to their property, the offer was raised to $27,500 and the dispute appeared settled. However, Thomas R. Wolford refused to sign the necessary voucher to complete the transaction.

When representatives of the SRC went onto the Wolford property to begin work on the canalization of traffic into and out of the station, they were forced off by Mr. Wolford at gunpoint.

Subsequently, on July 15, 1958, Judge Harris signed the temporary restraining order prohibiting the SRC from obstructing, interfering with, drilling upon, setting or driving posts upon the premises or otherwise attempting to impede access to and egress from the Wolford premises.

Comptroller Not Seriously Hurt

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein rested easily in Washington County Hospital Tuesday night after being struck by shotgun pellets meant for a bird.

"The Republicans had left before the accident," the state official quipped as he was carried from the scene of a hunting accident in a stretcher.

He got about six pellets from a 12 gauge shotgun in the stomach and left side, five in the neck and face, and about six in other areas of the body.

His condition was reported good, but he was held in the hospital overnight for observation.

Goldstein was in a group of hunters on the crest of a hill when some birds were flushed by another party on the hill about 150 yards away. Someone on the summit fired, with part of the scattering charge hitting the state official.

In the four months since the Allegany County tax bills were mailed out, nearly 94 per cent of the anticipated $3,446,400 revenue from this source has been received by County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff.

Mr. Orndorff reported yesterday that he has turned over to Mrs. Johanna N. Sils, county auditor, $43,023.93, representing the county tax collections for the month of September when one-half of one per cent interest was charged on county taxes. It now has advanced to one per cent interest.

The September collections, coupled with those for June, July and August, when a discount was allowed on county taxes, bring the total revenue from this source in four months to $3,237,748.24.

New Expectations

When the county commissioners set the county tax rate on April 21, they predicted total collections on county real estate and personal property taxes of $3,446,400. The collections through September 30, amount to 93.9 per cent of the anticipated yield.

The monthly county tax collections:

June—$2,901,604.63; July—$153,768.58; August—$139,351.10; September—$43,023.93.

Mr. Orndorff reported that his September collections at the Court House included $33,986.17 in real and personal property taxes, $4,695.70 in corporation taxes, $3,419.45 on the new semi-annual assessments, $173.59 on house trailers and $100 on the new arrival tax on house trailers.

In addition, the collector also turned over to Mrs. Sils his September collections for the four sanitary districts in the county. They included $268.20 for the LaVale Sanitary Commission, $170.79 for the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association, $18.56 for Potomac Park Addition and $12.48 for the Mt. Savage Special Taxing Area.

Reminders Sent

Meanwhile, as an effort to boost the delinquent taxpayers to get their taxes paid promptly, the county tax collector is sending a second reminder to all who have not paid their taxes. These notices have been mailed out on real estate taxes for the first seven election districts of the county and to 24 election districts on the personal property taxes due.

"Our tax records show your 1959 state and county taxes were not paid during the discount period. This is just a reminder that monthly interest charges started September 1. Therefore it would be to your advantage to make payment as soon as possible in order to avoid additional costs. If ownership of this property has changed, will you please give us the name and address of the party to whom the tax bill should be sent."
